State Urges Propane Customers to Plan Now for Winter

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Sept. 22, 2014) -- The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (EEC) and Kentucky's propane industry are taking proactive steps to ensure that adequate propane supplies are available to meet the needs of Kentuckians this coming winter.

"The most effective short-term actions that suppliers and customers can take are to participate in fall fill programs," said EEC Secretary Len Peters. "Weather is a dominant influence in the demand for propane — colder-than-normal winters both increase demand and negatively impact deliverability. Current weather forecasts indicate that we'll experience another strong winter for the region and we want to make sure customers are prepared." Tod Griffin, executive director of the Kentucky Propane Gas Association, pointed out that the issue is not supply but getting the propane to where it is needed. "Propane production has increased significantly; the problem is bottlenecks due to lack of adequate storage and transportation infrastructure." Griffin said the propane industry strongly urges consumers to:

1. Fill storage tanks now, before the cold weather hits. Many dealers have pre-buy or summer fill programs that encourage customers to top-off before the high-demand season starts.
2. Sign up for automatic delivery rather than being a "will call" customer. This allows dealers to better schedule delivery trucks and helps ensure that the customer won't run out of propane.
3. Sign up for budget pay ment plans. This helps the customer spread the payments for propane over several months.

4. Monitor your tank. Know how much you have left in the tank. Unless your dealer requests otherwise, call when the level hits 25 percent. This will allow your dealer to schedule you for a refill in a timely manner.

5. Have a professional perform tune-ups/ maintenance on equipment and appliances to increase fuel efficiency. "We have become increasingly concerned with the likelihood of propane delivery disruptions during the coming winter," said Secretary Peters. "A wetter-than-normal fall and increased grain production have the potential to increase demand for propane used in grain drying, particularly in the Midwestern corn belt." This was a key factor in the propane shortages Kentucky experienced (Continued to page 4)

OWSLEY COUNTY SCHOOL OFFICIAL RESIGNS

Mr. Paul Green, Owsley County DPP, Academic Officer and Innovative Coordinator for the School District put in his letter of resignation as of Wednesday, October 1, 2014. On Monday, October 6, 2014, Mr. Green will began another job with KVEC (Kentucky Valley Educational Cooperative) a Coop of individual educational groups that offer services to member district schools in Eastern Kentucky. Mr. Green will be working under the new grants that KVEC has been awarded: one an ARC Grant where he will be out in the school districts working on Work Ready Communities and College and Career Readiness and the other grant; the Race to the Top Grant. He will also be promoting distance learning to the schools throughout the co-op schools.

"I cannot wait to begin a new journey in my career," stated Mr. Green. "I am really excited to begin work on Monday!"

Dr. Bobrowski stated that he was unsure if anyone would be hired for the position that Mr. Green vacated at this time. "I will have to talk to my board," stated Dr. Bobrowski, "and see what direction they wish to take at this time." "It will be hard to fill three positions!"

Mr. Green was also teaching one college class during the day and will continue to teach the class until the end of the semester through the use of virtual learning and by use of blackboard. "I plan to stop in and check in with the students at least every two weeks." stated Mr. Green.

Mr. Green has 17 years of educational experience; 14 years of experience with the Owsley County School District and 3 years with Lee County School District.

KY 2152 in Owsley County to be closed Saturday, Oct. 11

JACKSON, KY – In order to replace a drainage pipe, the Kentucky Department of Highways plans to close KY 2152 (Left Fork of Cow Creek Road) in Owsley County on Saturday, Oct. 11. The road will be closed near milepoint 0.2, just east of Charlie Roberts Branch Road. The project will begin around 7:30 a.m. and will be completed as quickly as possible. No detour is available. Motorists should plan their trips accordingly. Provisions will be made should emergency vehicles need access to areas beyond the closure point. In case of inclement weather, the closure will be postponed until the next suitable day.

PRTC Returns Almost $400k in Capital Credits

Increase of more than 60 percent over 2013!

Beginning next week, Peoples Rural Telephone Cooperative, Inc. (PRTC) will return almost $400,000 in Capital Credit payments to its subscribers. This represents an increase of nearly 60 percent over 2013. "We are proud that we can return these funds to our subscribers. We invest in Jackson and Owsley Counties to provide the finest and most advanced communications services possible," said Keith Gabbard, PRTC CEO. "This is an investment not just in our community, but also our future."

As a non-profit membership organization, PRTC distributes a share in its annual operating margins back to its shareholders - PRTC subscribers. While this amount varies from year to year, PRTC has paid out more than $7 million during the past decade.

Members will begin receiving their capital credit checks on or after October 8th. Your capital credit check is one of the added benefits of doing business with a cooperative. Please know that PRTC very much appreciates your business.

PRTC is holding its Annual Meeting on Saturday, October 18th, 2014 at 1:00 PM at the Jackson County Community Theatre in McKee. There will be cash prizes given away, as well as free gifts and technology demonstrations for those attending.

This is a great opportunity to mingle with PRTC management, employees and fellow shareholders, as well as to learn about what PRTC has accomplished during the past year and what is planned for the near future.

Everyone at PRTC looks forward to seeing you there!

State Urges Propane Customers to Plan Now For Winter

last year. The unprecedented demand for propane for grain drying and home heating during the 2013-14 winter season led to temporary price surges and strained both Kentucky's and the nation's transportation infrastructure, even as U.S. propane production reached all-time highs. Secretary Peters also recommended that homeowners seal and insulate their homes for increased efficiency and comfort in both winter and summer. Visit kyhomeperformance.org for more information about available incentives for improving your home. For tips on home weatherization and energy efficiency visit the Cabinet's energy website at energy.ky.gov. SENIOR SPOTLIGHT 2014

This week the Owsley County High School Senior Spotlight shines on David Combs and Caitlin Begley.

CAITLIN BEGLEY

Caitlin Begley is the wife of Kyle Begley and the sister of Marybeth, Natasha, Patricia, and Jesse Travis Newton, Malia Brandenburg, and Josh Hacker. Caitlin's career and college goals are to Berea College and become a Vet. Her hobbies include spending time with her husband and texting, getting on Facebook, walking, and "being herself". Caitlin has an A and B grade average while in high school. She states that she tries hard to stay stress free, she misses her family, and is a "class clown".

DAVID COMBS

David Combs is the son of Jackie and Earl Rice and the brother of Brandon Combs. David's career and college goals are to attend Eastern Kentucky University and becoming a Law Enforcement Officer or a Physical Education Teacher. David's hobbies include basketball, track, and cross-country. He was track athlete of the month and while playing basketball the team was 56th District Champion.

Outdoor Truths

by Gary Miller

The leaves are changing color and are beginning to fall. In my area this is one of the most beautiful times of the year. Thousands will come to see the autumn colors that blanket the mountains of East Tennessee. The protective canopy that had surrounded us hunters just a few weeks ago will now surrender its leaves and expose us as an unwanted intruder. The forest will change, led by the leaves on each tree. This is a change orchestrated by God.

Over the years I have made the claim that I have never met an atheist hunter. Anyone who is outside as much as a hunter understands that even though we may not understand how He did it, when He did it, or why He did it; we believe Somebody bigger than you and me created this earth that we live on. And it doesn't take much research to conclude that God planned for us to know about Him through creation. Everything that He created has meaning. It gives us a glimpse of the nature and qualities of God. The trees are a perfect example. Each fall, most trees shed their leaves. If we look at a tree after the leaves have fallen, it looks dead. There it stands, without giving any hint as to the life that is just under its skin. There is no color or movement or promise by its appearance. But if we look within we can see there is life. It may be dormant but in another season it will come alive again. This is the picture of the soul.

One day this body will give up life as we know it. By all outward appearances it will look as if it is the end; no color, no movement, no promise. But just below our flesh is the soul – it is life; our exterior may look dormant but in another season it will come alive again. It will take on a new body, one that will never decay or be destroyed. It will be everlasting. It is truly amazing to see all that God did in order to show us about Himself. He must really care for us and want us to be with Him. How tragic if we never get the message.

Shopping for Your Family on a Budget

(StatePoint) From school supplies and groceries to new clothes, outfitting your family can mean budget worries for parents. To make shopping easier and more affordable, do your homework and get your game-plan together.

The shopping experts at Dollar General are sharing convenient and cost-effective tips for saving money at the store:

Cool Threads
Any parent knows keeping up with fashion isn't the only consideration -- there's price to think about as well. Not only do styles change, but children grow and change too. Buy the basics like jeans, sweaters and sweatshirts at low costs.

Kids quickly outgrow everything so plan accordingly. For school uniforms, research online low prices, discounts and free shipping offers.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic

Pencils, paper, calculators and everything else. For the little ones, you may need to stock up on pencils markers, crayons and arts-and-crafts essentials. Older children may have more advanced classwork and advanced supplies like calculators, compasses and composition notebooks.

Consider purchasing all of these items during the summer from an everyday low price retailer like Dollar General. You can get a great deal and spread the cost of back to school supplies out over the summer months.

(StatePoint)Whether you're a homeowner or a renter, savvy approaches to running your home can save you money according to house smart experts.

These simple tips from Homes.com, a leading online real estate destination, and sister site, ForRent.com, won't take much time or effort to execute.

- Programmable Thermostats: Available for about $50-$100, programmable or "smart" thermostats can save hundreds of dollars yearly on electricity bills, taking the guesswork out of finding a comfortable temperature for your home. Some models even come equipped with Wi-Fi so you can turn down the thermostat remotely.

- Low-Flow Shower: Don't wash money down the drain. By taking the environmentally friendly step of replacing outdated showerheads with new low-flow models, you can reduce your water use in the shower by 25 to 60 percent, as well as increase hot water efficiency, according to Energy Department statistics.

- Extra Payment: Over the course of a 30-year loan, one additional mortgage payment yearly can save thousands on an-

by Deron Mays

* Sunday was a big turnout at Sag Hollow as 28 guest and 25 members enjoyed a sunny, pleasant day of golf. The season is winding down but there's still several weeks of beautiful autumn weather left for the golf lovers of the area, so grab your clubs and head to Sag Hollow for a great day of fun.

* Eric Mason won the Tuesday league play with a -4 from his handicap. Eric handicap is 33, or -3 from the par 36 for the course, so he had to shoot a 29 in order to score a -4. That's earning a win the hard way. Eric, along with his golfing buddy, and brother-in-law, Randy Osborne, both have very low handicaps and it's not the easiest of matters for them to win in the league, but both have done so several times this summer. The handicap system is modeled after the one used by the PGA and is used to make an even playing field for all entrants in the league.

* Greg Kemper and Cody Pennington won the team portion of the league with a -5 score. Eric Mason won both $10 certificates for closest to the pin on numbers 3 and 6. This week's closest to the pin certificates were sponsored by Booneville Shopwise and Showtime Pizza of Jackson.

* There were 5 skins won in Thursday's Skin Game. Derrick Begley won two, and Jerry Shouse, Cody Pennington, and Tim Pennington each had one win. The closest to the pin on number 3 was won by Derrick Begley, and the closest on number 6 was won by Jerry Shouse. This week's closest to the pins prizes were sponsored by Begley's Auto Parts and Allen's Ambulance Service.

* Good luck to the Owsley County girls and boys high school golf teams as they play in the KHSAA regional golf tournament at London Country Club this week.

* Sunday, October 5th is the scheduled date for the Justin "Slim" Thomas Scholarship Scramble. Kyle Bobrowski has organized this tournament for the past several years and has done a fantastic job with it. Prizes for this year's scramble are $1000 for the winning team, $500 for second, and a dozen Pro V1x Golf Balls for third. There are also numerous other prizes, such as longest drive and closest to the pins, to be won. Each participant will receive a "goody bag", lunch during registration, and dinner at the conclusion of play. Registration begins at noon to 12:45 pm. There will be a shotgun start at 1:00 pm. Entry fee is $60 and includes mulligans.

* Upcoming events at Sag Hollow: Oct 3--Glow Ball Tournament (only after dark) Oct 5--Justin "Slim" Thomas Scholarship Scramble Oct 18-19--Sag Hollow Golf Club Membership Tournament and Dinner Nov 1--Skins Game ($50 buy-in)

nual interest payments.

- Unplug: Many gadgets and appliances consume power even when turned off, a phenomenon known as "phantom power." Unplug or use a smart power strip to save an estimated five to ten percent on electric.

- House Plants: With air pollution levels increasing, improving indoor air quality is important. But air purifiers can cost hundreds of dollars. Consider houseplants to remove toxins from the air and add color, warmth and comfort.

- Dodge the Draft: As a house ages, hot and cold air from outside often creeps in. Weatherproofing is an inexpensive, simple task that can save up to 15 percent on heating and cooling costs. There are a variety of weatherproofing products, including v strip, felt, and foam tape. Research what your home needs. You can also get a home energy audit to discover ways to improve your home's interior quality.

- Do-it-Yourself: Redecorating can make a home feel new. However, professionals often come with a hefty price tag, so use online resources to jump on the DIY bandwagon or check out free DIY workshops at hardware stores like Home Depot and Lowe's.

- Ceiling Fans: An air conditioner uses 3,500 watts of energy, while a ceiling fan only uses 60 watts. Ceiling fans can even be useful during winter. Set the fan to run clockwise and the reverse motion will push warm air down from the ceiling.

- Shop Your Home: Before buying new home accessories, look for budget-friendly tweaks you can make. Rearrange furniture and lighting to change the feel of any space or switch decorations between rooms to make both feel different.

- Laundry: Consider washing most clothes (except towels and linens) in cold water. Use the dryer efficiently by filling but not overfilling the machine. Some energy-efficient appliances can qualify your family for an additional tax credit.

WORDS OF A DYING MAN

The last words of an individual hold a ton of weight; especially when the individual knows that death is near. Jesus knew He would be killed in Jerusalem, in fact, over the last couple months of His ministry it was a main teaching of His to the Apostles (Matthew 16:21). The Bible records seven statements of Jesus while He was nailed to the cross; the words of a dying man. Here they are, in the order He spoke them.

“Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.” (Luke 23:34). The compassion that He has for all of us is seen here. He was willing to forgive those that killed Him and He is willing to forgive you of your sins as well. The entire reason He was crucified was to shed His blood as the Lamb of God to pay for the sins each and every one of us have committed.

The second thing Christ said on the cross also dealt with forgiveness, “Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in paradise” (Luke 23:43). Jesus spoke these words to one of the thieves being crucified next to Him. The dying thief had shown his faith in Christ. Because of his faith, Christ gives him the gift of salvation and since both men would be dead within the next few hours Jesus assures the man of eternal life. What a beautiful example this is to us; salvation is acquired not by baptism or church membership or even living a moral life; it is through faith in our crucified Saviour.

Christ moves his attention from heavenly things to His earthly responsibilities. He speaks to His mother and the apostle John, “Woman, behold thy son! Behold thy mother!” (John 19:26-27). Jesus, being the oldest son, is responsible for the well being of his widowed mother. By telling Mary to look at John and behold her son; then looking at John and telling him to behold his mother, He was passing His earthly responsibility of taking care of Mary over to John.

For us today, there is the obvious lesson of taking care of our family, but there is something interesting here. After the virgin birth of Jesus, Mary and Joseph had a normal marriage and had other children (Matthew 13:55-56). The common thing to do would be to pass this duty of caring for mom to James, his oldest brother, but He passes it to His spiritual brother instead. The old saying is that blood is thicker than water is true, but maybe it is truer that the blood of Christ uniting us as spiritual brethren is thicker than blood or water.

Moving on to number four, the human side of Christ is seen as He cries out, “My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?” (Matthew 27:46). Every sin, ever committed, or will ever be committed was placed on the Lamb of God and the world went black. From the smallest “white lie” to the genocide of millions, all the sins were there, as God provided Himself a Lamb.

If you have ever felt like God was a million miles away? The Son of God went through those same feelings as your sins were placed upon Him on Calvary. He suffered all this, the feeling of separation from the Heavenly Father, the horrific torture of the cross and the death He did not have to die, to pay for your sins. The human race no longer has to make things right with God, Jesus has done it already. We only need to believe it.

With the words, “I thirst.” Christ confirms the reliability of the Scripture. When He says this, He is given vinegar to drink fulfilling the prophecy of Psalm 69:21. One of His last acts was to show us, we can trust the scripture.

John 19:30 is the most significant of all Christ statements on the cross; “It is finished.” Everything Christ had come to do was now done. Everything He needed to do for our salvation was accomplished. What does this mean for us? He has paid it all; the debt to God for our sin is paid for. All we need to do now is believe it.

Now that the work is done, it is time to die. “Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit” are His last words (Luke 23:46). Christ had a complete trust in the Father; there is no fear of death. Through faith, because of the sacrifice of Christ, as the Lamb of God, a Christian knows what the future holds; a Christian can never be threatened with death.

AG Conway Announces 2014 Prescription Drug Abuse Prevention PSA Contest

Attorney General Jack Conway and his Keep Kentucky Kids Safe partners today announced the start of their annual prescription drug abuse prevention public service announcement (PSA) contest for Kentucky middle and high school students. The competition is part of Attorney General Conway's statewide public awareness initiative to warn Kentucky kids about the dangers of misusing prescription drugs.

“Education is an integral part of our strategy to combat prescription drug abuse in Kentucky,” Attorney General Conway said. “Our annual PSA competition provides students the opportunity to produce creative and informative public awareness videos that are used to alert all Kentuckians to the heavy toll that prescription drug abuse is taking on families across the Commonwealth. My hope is that through our Keep Kentucky Kids Safe initiative, we can save future generations from the deadly consequences of prescription pill abuse.”

Attorney General Conway's video PSA competition is held in partnership with the Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy, the Kentucky Pharmacists Association (KPhA), the National Association of Drug Diversion Investigators (NADDI), Operation UNITE, and concerned parents Dr. Karen Shay and Mike Donta, who have both lost children to prescription drug abuse.

As part of the competition, Kentucky middle and high school students produce a 30-second video that shows the risks of prescription drug abuse. The first-place winner will receive an Apple iPad generously donated by NADDI. The runner-up will receive a $100 Amazon.com gift card donated by the Kentucky Pharmacists Association.

“This contest is a great way to teach the next generation to think about ways to curb this epidemic,” said Robert McFalls, KPhA Executive Director/CEO. “Many of our members volunteer to educate the public about the dangers of prescription drug abuse and counsel patients on correct usage of the medications. This contest allows KPhA an additional avenue to promote safe prescription drug use.”

The deadline for submitting a video is Dec. 8, 2014. Winners will be announced on Dec. 15, 2014.

Students may find out how to submit a video by visiting Attorney General Conway's prescription drug abuse prevention page at <http://ag.ky.gov/rxabuse>.

Last year's winning video was produced by a group of students from Calloway County High School. The video is available for viewing on the Office of the Attorney General's YouTube page at <https://youtu.be/5DrcDsZOFkg>.

Gatton Academy again atop national rankings

The best high school in the nation is right here in Kentucky.

For the third year in a row, The Carol Martin Gatton Academy of Mathematics and Science in Bowling Green topped a list by news website The Daily Beast of the 754 best high schools in the United States.

And by all accounts, the distinction is a welcomed accolade born of hard work — not award chasing.

"It's a thrill to be a three-peat," said Julia Roberts, executive director. "It makes me proud to be a Kentuckian."

Roberts has been with the Gatton Academy since its start back in 2007 when it was lauded as a "beacon of excellence" by state and Western Kentucky University officials who wanted to challenge and inspire gifted students from across the state.

She said the school's supportive focus on students and its "economical" partnership with WKU that allows it to tap into campus resources such as professors and programming helps Gatton Academy stand out.

"It has exceeded any expectations that anyone could have," she said. "The research that they're doing is outstanding at any level, much less as juniors and seniors in high school."

The academy is part boarding school, part high school and part university. It selectively draws high school juniors and seniors from across Kentucky — admitting 20 percent of applicants from 113 of the state's 120 counties so far — with a passion for math and science.

Students take science, technology, engineering and math focused coursework taught by WKU professors in WKU classrooms along with traditional undergraduate students — all financially supported by the state.

Jane Clarenbach, director of public education for the National Association for Gifted Children, said one of the biggest benefits of schools like Gatton is their ability to offer access to advanced academics to students, regardless of financial means or hometown. As a newer statewide public school, she said, Gatton was able to learn from existing successful programs.

Ranking Gat-

ton, which operates as a statewide school district, alongside schools with limited districts is clearly not comparing apples to apples, she said.

"That doesn't make the high school a bad high school or a less quality high school," she said. "It just means they've done what they can do for gifted students. It's not about comparing the two in my mind."

Seniors Josh Stewart and Kelly McKenna, both from Crestwood in Oldham County, said they chose Gatton because Advanced Placement and honors classes at their home high schools weren't challenging.

McKenna entered Gatton with an interest in math, but soon developed a new-found passion for computer science. She plans to major in chemical engineering. Last year, Stewart conducted research in a WKU professor's lab and presented his findings at a national conference this summer. He plans to attend medical school to become a surgeon. EASTSIDE APARTMENT NEWS

by Ruby Callahan

Hello From Eastside! Our weather is changing again! People are getting ready for winter. I myself don't like cold weather that keeps everyone inside.

Keep all of our sick in your prayers! Patton Harris and I have both had a rough week with upset stomachs.

A lot of prayers have been answered in the last week. Brother Earl Seale had a cancer free checkup. His doctor told him he had bone cancer but when he went back to his doctor he was cancer free.

My daughter and her family moved over the week-end into an apartment.

I cooked and had Ray, Michael and Shaleena over to eat yesterday.

Bible Verse: I will bless the Lord at all times: praise shall continually be in my mouth. (Psalms 34:1)

Recipe: Sorghum Molasses Cake

1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup butter
1 teaspoon ginger
2 cup flour

1 cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Cream butter and sugar, beat eggs well and add to mix, then add sorghum. Mix cloves, cinnamon, ginger and salt to flour. Add a cup of hot water, butter and flour mixture and beat on low. Batter will be thin. Pour in cake pan and bake moderate heat for 45 mins. or until cake is done. When pushed down with finger cake doesn't dent.

A Simple Man

Clarence and his brother Will did not feel safe sitting on a limb in the tree only thirty yards from the black bear they had spotted eating blackberries. They didn't speak to each other as they kept their eyes on the bear. They knew bears had a keen sense of smell and were certain it knew they were not too far away. After what seemed like a long time, the bear lumbered off and was soon out of sight. The boys whispered to each other and decided to stay put for a while longer just to be sure the bear was gone. Will said they should check to see if the bear had left any blackberries for them to pick. About an hour had passed and the boys quietly walked back to the bushes to check for blackberries. The bear had eaten them all. The boys knew of another patch, but did not want to take the chance that the black bear had gone there too. They took their empty buckets and went back home. When they arrived their mother greeted them and listened to the story of why their buckets were empty. She told them she was glad they were smart boys and that they made it back home safely. She had several jars of peaches that she could use to make a cobbler and the boys were relieved to hear that. As the years passed, the two brothers would enjoy a laugh about the time the black bear beat them to the blackberries and how they had escaped from the bear.

The entire family looked forward to having the yearly reunion. The family farm where Clarence had been reared was called The Homestead. When Clarence was in his fifties, the farm had been sold and he had rarely gone back to visit his old cabin home. All of his brothers and sisters had moved away and had no interest in buying the land for themselves. He had returned to the old property in the last year more times than he had in forty years. The owners of his old farm were friendly and liked to hear stories about the past, so they welcomed him to come and visit anytime he wanted to. Through the years his siblings had gathered at one of their homes each August for their reunion. As a child, Clarence waited for months and months for the reunion time to come around again. Each year there would be new cousins, or someone got married, or someone died, or someone went into the military. He had tried not to miss a reunion over the years, but occasionally he could not get off work to attend. He and his daughters had attended the reunion in August at his nephew's home in Tennessee. He was the last living sibling in his family. Like he and his friend Buck discussed often, he did not know why they had been privileged to live so long.

Home Improvement Tips to Make the Most of Small Spaces

(StatePoint) No matter where you live, you want to make the most of your available living and storage space.

This is especially true for residents in urban areas who typically have smaller living spaces. And urban living is on the rise. As of 2010, more than half of all people lived in an urban area, and by 2030 it is anticipated that six out of every 10 people will be living in a city, according to the World Health Organization.

But less space doesn't mean that you have to go without, say experts.

"A few simple adjustments can help you maintain your comfort in a small home," says Robin Wilson, celebrity interior designer with expertise in creating healthy spaces.

There are plenty of ways to "open up" your living spaces to create more room.

The Living Room

Choose furniture for a small living room that is appropriate for the space. For example, avoid sofas with skirts and select couches which are raised off the floor to create a more open look.

A large, strategically placed mirror can also help create the illusion that your living room is actually much larger than it is. The same goes for lack of clutter. Be sure to keep a small space organized with a daily once-over.

Storage

Living simply can go a long way toward making your home feel larger. Every season, go through your closet and toss aside items that are worn out, no longer fit, or are out of style.

Use creative storage solutions to make more space. For example, an ottoman that doubles as a trunk is a great place to store old photos and keepsakes. A bike rack that mounts to the wall can clear valuable floor space in your foyer.

The Kitchen

The kitchen is often the heart of the home, particularly if you like entertaining or love to cook. Unfortunately, kitchens can get overcrowded quickly by excessive gadgetry.

"If counter space is at a premium, consider highly functional appliances that have multiple uses," says Wilson.

For example, the Panasonic Genius NN-SD681S microwave is equipped with inverter technology, which gives this kitchen essential the ability to function like an oven and ensures every dish is cooked evenly throughout. Though it is compact in size, it still maintains a spacious interior and comes with an optional trim kit that easily converts this microwave to a built-in, freeing up counter space while giving a stylish accent to cabinetry. More information can be found at www.Panasonic.com.

The Bathroom

Give the illusion of space by decorating with pale or pastel colors on the walls and floor. Avoid using bolder colors, except on towels and ornamental pieces

Throughout the Home Ensure that you have lighting at floor, table and eye level to help limit shadows. Another trick is to use a tall lamp to draw eyes upwards and add height to the room.

A small home is no excuse for feeling cramped. With a few interior design strategies in place, you can make even the smallest space feel larger in size.
